AHRENSBURG, GERMANY — SternVitamin announced in July that Unipex Solutions is a new distributor for its products in France and Canada.

In close cooperation with its customers, the company with its headquarters in Ahrensburg, Germany, near Hamburg, and operating internationally develops tailor-made nutrient premixes for the fortification of foods and the production of food supplements.

The portfolio comprises combinations of active ingredients consisting of vitamins, minerals, amino acids and also plant extracts. These offer an additional health benefit in drinks, bakery products and pasta, cereals, dairy products and sweets, and also in baby food, margarine and edible oils. "From now on our aim will be to give even more attention to the individual wishes of our customers in France and Canada with Unipex Solutions as our local distributor," said Lennart Kutschinski, managing director of SternVitamin.

Unipex Solutions has years of experience in the distribution of food ingredients and is an established partner of food manufacturers in France and Canada. The company represents SternVitamin's entire product range and is therefore the contact for the food and beverages industry, dairies, baby food manufacturers, and producers of food supplements.
